A benefit for

WHEELER MISSION
Ministries

On any given night, there are approximately 1,500 homeless men, women and children in our community.

Since 1893 Wheeler Mission has been providing food, shelter, clothing, rehabilitation services and spiritual direction to the homeless and less fortunate in central Indiana. Last year, Wheeler served more than 250,000 meals and provided more than 100,000 nights of lodging to men, women and children. This is made possible by the generosity of donors, organizations and various events throughout the year.

Because Wheeler Mission Ministries is a faith-based organization, an event was created specifically for the Christian body of believers called the Camp Out to Stamp Out Homelessness. From Friday evening, June 18th, through Saturday morning, June 19th, 2010, members of the Christian community will call Indiana War Memorial's American Legion Mall home. Camp Out to Stamp Out Homelessness is an overnight event designed to spread awareness of homeless issues and raise funds for Wheeler's life-changing programs...and have fun while we are at it!

During this event, we plan to have short videos about homelessness and Wheeler's programs, a family friendly movie and musical entertainment. The music will be provided by Two or More, a Christian Ecuadorian-American band from Southern California that performs a style of Latin Rock, and Wheeler Mission's own Downside Out, whose members are all graduates of our Hebron Addiction Recovery Program.

Please join us in making the Camp Out to Stamp Out Homelessness an effective, powerful event that challenges and encourages our Christian community's understanding of homeless issues.

Sincerely,

Rick Alvis

Downside Out is an informal band of ex-addicts. The band was formed in 2009 and is made up of men who are graduates of Wheeler Mission's Hebron Addiction Recovery Program and lead Sunday morning worship at the Hebron Center. The Hebron Center is located near Bloomington, Indiana and is an intensive residential treatment facility for men and families overcoming addictions through the power of God and the resources that God provides. Downside Out exists solely to glorify God and point to God as the wonderful and loving Creator and the Author of change.

The band members, who are actually learning their instruments as they go, were rescued from life threatening drug addictions. Each member has been faced with the life and death reality that drug addiction brings. The name Downside Out is not just a band name; it is a statement and reminder of that reality. Downside represents all the "stuff" that comes with addiction: gut-wrenching shame, guilt, feelings of failure, selfishness, absolute sorrow and the grief of knowing that loved ones are affected. Yet, there is no power to change. Downside refers to a life-style of paranoia, anger and walking amongst shadows – Biblically, "walking in darkness." Out represents what happens when Jesus Christ and the power of the Gospel come into that darkness and begin their work. When Jesus entered the temple, He began chasing out the people who were doing wrong. He told them, "The Scriptures say, 'My house should be a place of worship.' But you have made it a place where robbers hide!" Literally, Jesus brought light to the darkness.

PRAISE IS OUR RESPONSE.

Luke 19:40: But Jesus answered, "If they keep quiet, these stones will start shouting."

Two Or More

TWO OR MORE is an Ecuadorian-American band from Southern California that performs a style of Latin rock with elements of blues, soul and pop. The band primarily consists of three brothers: Walter, Eddie and Renatto Aguas. From the Black Crowes and Beach Boys to the BeeGees and the Everly Brothers, there's something about the unstudied perfection of sibling vocal harmonies that creates a distinctive, irresistible style. They are accompanied by great friends Arnie Vilches (Puerto Rico) and Russ Reshaw (US). This culturally diverse union of musicians makes for an original band in the Christian music world.

The Aguas brothers have followed the tradition of their mother, Stella, who sang with her brothers in a band called Hermanitos Montano. They performed Boleros, Valses Peruanos and traditional Ecuadorian folk music in Quito in the 50's and 60's. As far back as they can remember, the Aguas brothers would sing back up vocals for mom and serve as her band at every family gathering.

In their early teen years, after many hours of garage practices, the brothers recorded their first demo in 1985. Over the next seven years, the brothers played up and down the Sunset Strip, at local clubs and private parties. After catching the eye of record executive Ron Oberman, the band got picked up by what was then known as Columbia Records. However, it did not take long to find out that a "deal" didn't bring the happiness they were looking for. In 1991, longtime friend and keyboard player Lance Mowdy left the band and became a "Jesus Freak." Sold out for his new faith and excited to share this passion for God with his buddies, Lance continued to hang out with the guys at practice and came to some gigs as well. The youngest and most rebellious brother of the three, Renatto, was most affected by Lance's witness of Christ. Renatto committed his heart to Jesus in the summer of 1992. Left without a lead singer and shocked by their little brother's conversion, Walter and Eddie scrambled to try and find a new singer.

During this time, Lance and Renatto got back to working on music together, but this time with purpose and true passion. With songs like "Our Father," "Hero" and "He's There," Two Or More was born and quickly grabbed Walt and Eddie's attention. As their interest grew, Renatto could not help but ask his brothers why they wanted to be part of a group creating Christian music when they themselves were not Christians. Over the next six months, Renatto and Lance had the opportunity to witness to the brothers through their music and their lives the love of Jesus. By the end of 1992, Walter and Eddie had both given their lives to the Lord, bringing the original band back together again.

For the past fourteen years, Two or More has been a full-time ministry and a favorite of Christian music lovers everywhere. With two nationally-released CD's producing three top ten CCM radio singles, the band has toured across the US and into Central and South America several times. Whether it's a mellow unplugged evening with the three brothers or a high energy Latin rhythm filled concert hall with the full six-piece band, Two Or More brings a Christ-centered heart complemented by unparalleled musical excellence.

"We're just a Jesus Band, and we want to see people grasp the fact that our God is alive and well!"

For more than 116 years, Wheeler Mission has been providing food, shelter, clothing, rehabilitation services and spiritual direction to the homeless and less fortunate in central Indiana. Begun in 1893 as a home for homeless women by the Meridian Union of the Women's Christian Temperance Union, it was expanded by William Vincent Wheeler later that year to include a rescue mission. Coupling its charitable work with programs to develop a sense of self-sufficiency among the poor, The Rescue Mission and Home of Indianapolis was among the city's first charitable operations of its kind. William V. Wheeler served as the superintendent until he died in 1908 and the mission was renamed Wheeler Mission in his honor. Since then, Wheeler Mission Ministries has expanded to five locations, dozens of ministries, a budget of $6.2 million and nearly 130 employees. It is also the largest and most diverse ministry of its kind in the state.

Leadership

The day to day operation of Wheeler Mission is under the direction of President/CEO Rick Alvis and the Executive Leadership Team. The organization is under the guidance of a governing board of directors.

 5¢ comes from foundations

Where the Money Goes

Of every dollar we receive:
 77¢ goes to programs/services
 16¢ goes to resource development
 7¢ goes to administration

Wheeler also has two social enterprise ministries. Annabel's Thrift Shop (2730 S Madison Avenue, also our Donation Center location, 317.536.7522) is located on the southside of Indianapolis. By selling new and gently used clothing and household items to the community, Annabel's helps fund vital ministry programs and also offers training and work opportunities for program participants. Hebron Hardwoods (7790 N Fish Road, 812.961.0023), a saw mill located on the grounds of Wheeler's Camp Hunt in Bloomington, provides work-therapy for men in the Hebron Addiction Recovery Program. The men have opportunities to learn new skills, develop work ethic, build character and produce wood pallets, firewood and custom millwork, which help generate income that covers a portion of the program cost.

Charles

Intake Manager
Delaware Street Center

On August 8, 2006, Charles walked through the doors of Wheeler Mission, and for the first time in his adult life, he stopped running. Addicted to drugs, jobless and homeless, he never dreamed that three years later, he'd be the one offering help to the men who walk through those same doors.

Growing up in a Christian home wasn't enough to keep young Charles away from drugs. At 14, he was using marijuana and alcohol purchased by older friends. As an adult, he moved from job to job, in and out of relationships and on to harder drugs. For 20 years, Charles tried to escape responsibility and guilt—until he came to Wheeler.

“After the years of running, I rededicated my life to God and good things began to happen. God took control and I knew I wasn't on my own anymore. On my own strength, I couldn't do it,” he says.

Now Charles has found the peace and contentment he sought for so long. His own life has meaning and purpose as he pours it into the lives of others.

“Every day, getting up and knowing I have the opportunity to serve in this ministry is the best thing I've ever done. I know this is exactly where I belong.”

Julie

Former Resident and Volunteer
Center for Women & Children

“I started with alcohol when I was 12. Our family drank socially so we'd go around at the parties and drink after the adults were finished. Because of alcohol use, I dropped out of school. Eventually, I started smoking pot because it was easier than sneaking alcohol. Since then, I've been in and out of rehabs.

“I came to the Center in 2005—homeless and looking for help with drug and alcohol addiction. I couldn't find a job and was just beaten down and didn't want to be around people anymore.

“The person who met me was warm and polite and didn't ask me a lot of questions—just asked me if I needed anything. I felt comfortable here and signed up to stay in the shelter and started a 30-day program that I knew was Christian-based. This led me to staying a full year! I wanted to get to know the Lord again. Before I came here, I'd pick up the Bible and read it and couldn't figure out the meaning. Now I know it's life's lessons.

“Being here was the best thing that's ever happened in my life. I've lost that feeling of wanting to be alone. I know that God loves me and forgives me, and there's nothing I can ever do that will change that.”
